ECM was selected as part of a team to provide Program Management services for the Cardwell Collaborative project. This transformative project consists of a 60,000-square-foot research and technology building located at the Medical Center of the Americas (MCA) in central El Paso, Texas.

The $21 million, highly-sophisticated facility follows strict bio-safety standards and will serve as the cornerstone building in a biomedical innovation park and incubator for the southwest region of the US. Tenants will include the Biomedical Institute of the Americas, Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, MCA Foundation, Minerva Genetics, and other private biomedical companies.

ECM also assisted the owner in the development of the Master Plan as well as a selection of the architect and contractors.
